THE GOLDEN AGE OF CHINA: THE TANG & SONG DYNASTIES

“THE WORLD’S MOST ADVANCED COUNTRY”

TEKS 4H, 15A, 27A
THE TANG DYNASTY (INTRODUCTION)

- Remember the Han dynasty?
  - Collapsed 220 AD
  - Over the next 350 years more than 30 local dynasties rose & fell!
  - Buddhism gained political influence during this time
  - This continued until the emergence of the Tang dynasty (618-907)
THE TANG DYNASTY

- Expanded empire
- Extended influence over Korea
- Empress Wu
- Strong central government to control the huge empire
- 2 capitals: Cha’ng-an and Luoyang
- Revived Confucianism, ending the political influence of Buddhism
  - Also revived the civil service exam
- Nobility dominated the government
- Education became more valued
- Central Asia defeated by Muslim armies in 751 (Battle of Talas)
- 907: Chinese rebels sacked & burned the capital of Chang-an & murdered the last Tang emperor (a child!)
THE IN-BETWEEN YEARS...

- Rival warlords divided China into kingdoms
- Families fought for the Mandate of Heaven until...
THE SONG DYNASTY (AKA SUNG DYNASTY)

- Never regained territory lost after the Tang
- Tried to buy peace with northern enemies - annual tributes of silver, tea, silk
- New capital established at Hangzhou
- Weak military
- Confucian government
- Strong economic development
- Southern cities prospered from trade with Chinese in the north, nomads in Central Asia, and people in Western Asia & Europe
- Population reached 100 million (double what it was prior to the Tang!)
- Marco Polo
- The Song scroll
ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE TANG & SONG

• Grand Canal extended - could ship goods across China by boat
• Use of paper money & letters of credit – improved economy!
• Mechanical clock, acupuncture
• Advances in math and algebra
• Land reform - parceled out land to peasant farmers
• Imported faster ripening rice, doubling the rice crop
  • Population increased
• Foreign trade flourished
• Major port cities boomed
• Poetry, painting blossomed
• Spread of Buddhism (gained popularity in China, then lost popularity)
